SOCIAL MEDIA SPEAKER TIPS

- Start promoting once your speaking session is confirmed! This will help build excitement about your presence at the 2023 ACVIM Forum.
- Plan your presence at the event. Who will be attending the event with you? Do you have support staff back at the office? How can they be involved in social media engagement? Involve the whole team if possible!
- Begin to promote heavily one month out from the event. Start telling your audience that you are hoping to see them at the 2023 ACVIM Forum and are looking forward to sharing insights with your peers.
- Cross-promote with other speakers. Someone else speaking with you? Part of a panel? Any colleagues speaking in other sessions? Connect with them and help promote each other.
- Mix scheduled posts with live content during the event to keep attendees engaged. Sharing thoughts, impressions and insights from other sessions you attend is a great way to drive engagement.
- Be human and have a conversation. Use a natural voice in your posts – it should feel like the ‘people on the ground’ are speaking to the audience. And make sure you reply to others posts when you can – remember, it is ‘Social’ media. Answer attendees’ questions about your session, and thank them for participating in it.
- Photos and videos are key! While on site show people what they are missing instead of simply telling them.

QUESTIONS? If additional collateral/artwork is needed, please reach out to Amanda Kludasch.
